“Home”. Four letters and an enormous question: where is home, really?

SJB SELECTION · NOVEMBER 2026

“Home”. Four letters and an enormous question: where is home, really?

Annatoria and Sondae carry the answer into contemporary gospel while keeping it from becoming too solemn.

The production looks towards R&B. The voices stay close. Human.

Spirituality is not built through distance, but through intimacy.

The result is an immense intimacy.

The sound has a homely warmth and the beat pulses like a lamp left on in a room for someone who has yet to return.

Home becomes belonging.

Protection.

Destination.

But also knowing that there is a place, real or spiritual, where we don’t have to keep justifying our presence.

Even those who don’t share the same religious frame can recognise that need.

> “Home” takes a spiritually enormous concept and brings it back to the simplest, most human thing possible: the desire to know there is still a place where we don’t have to explain why we are there.
